Catalog Description of Course: Concentrated study of American literature, 1800-1899.

Topics, genres, authors, and approaches will vary by semester. May be taken more than once for credit under different sub-headings.

Guiding questions for this semester's offering, focused on recovery and revitalization:

How has the canon of 19th-century American literature shifted over time, and why? What role has the recovery of "lost" texts played in changing that canon? What texts and topics are now central to the sub-field of 19th-century American literature? Why? How can we set those texts in conversation with each other, with more recent literature reflecting the lingering influence of 19th-century culture, and with the issues of today's society?

Required texts:

Great Tales and Poems of Edgar Allan Poe (Enriched Classics Edition)

Additional required texts linked to small-group and individualized reading:

- 1) an article-length piece of secondary criticism/scholarship about one of the authors and/or texts we study in the first portion of the course [chosen from instructor-provided list]
- 2) a book-length “neo-race” narrative you choose to read with a small group, as the basis for a collaborative oral presentation, focused on your text’s examination/depiction of race in American culture (e.g., a neo-slavery narrative; a text focused on a racial and/or ethnic identity [e.g., Asian American, Native American, Latino, Jewish American, Italian American, Irish American, Arab American]; or a text examining cross-racial identities or relationships [See instructor-provided list of recommendations.]
- 3) additional reading of a piece of secondary scholarship linked to your major project, an individualized multi-genre portfolio of writing [i.e., response/analysis notebook--#IV in the list below] growing out of your study of the neo-race narrative you select for analysis for the small-group project (#1 above)
- 4) texts available online, as indicated below on the tentative course schedule

Breakdown of Your Grade—Writing, Quizzes/Tests and Presentations

- I. Individual oral presentation on a short periodical “recovery reading” (primary text): 10%
- II. Group Presentation and individual write-up on a critical (secondary source) essay: 20%
Oral presentation by group: 10%; individual write-up: 10%
Note: Dr. Robbins will provide a list of options for this assignment.
- III. Midterm Test (objective plus essay): 20%
- IV. Group presentation—analysis of neo-race/ethnic literature [small-group choice text]: 10%
Note: Dr. Robbins will provide a list of options for this assignment.
- V. Response/Analysis Notebook [portfolio of your writing on your neo-race narrative]: 20%
- VI. Participation [attendance plus bonus points for participation extra credit options]: 10%
Basic attendance: 3 points per class period x 31 sessions = 93
Additional options for extra participation credit: attending special events announced in advance; making “value-added” contributions to our work in class (extra credit options)
- VI. Average of daily grades for quizzes and short in-class &/or online writing exercises: 10%

Grading Scale:

A+ = 98-100; A = 94-97; A- = 90-93; B+ = 88-89; B = 84-87; B- = 80-83;

C+ = 78-79; C = 74-77; C+ = 78-79; C- = 70-73; D+ = 68-69; D = 64-67;

D- = 60-63; below 60 = failing grade

Penalty for late work on major assignments: 5 points per class period late

Preliminary Schedule of Assignments and Activities

	Some notes on using this draft schedule: For each class meeting date listed, you should have completed the writing and/or reading listed for that day before you come to class. Often, included with a designated reading, you'll find some indicators of topics to be discussed during class: think about those before, during and after your reading. Check the course website regularly for any adjustments!
	Assignments (whether writing or reading) are due at the beginning of class. If you don't have an assigned piece of writing ready to turn in at the start of class, you should come ahead to class on time so as not to lose the opportunity to participate in shared learning activities—i.e. so as not to lose participation credit or miss an in-class graded activity. The late penalty will apply for any written work turned in after start-up of class, whether during class on the assigned due date or at the beginning of the next class meeting.

NO projects will be accepted after noon on Wednesday, May 8.

Policies and Resources

I. University-level policies--

A) Disabilities Statement:

Texas Christian University complies with the Americans with Disabilities Act and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 regarding students with disabilities. Eligible students seeking accommodations should contact the Coordinator of Student Disabilities Services in the Center for Academic Services located in Sadler Hall, 11. Accommodations are not retroactive, therefore, students should contact the Coordinator as soon as possible in the term for which they are seeking accommodations. Further information can be obtained from the Center for Academic Services, TCU Box 297710, Fort Worth, TX 76129, or at (817) 257-7486.

Adequate time must be allowed to arrange accommodations and accommodations are not retroactive; therefore, students should contact the Coordinator as soon as possible in the academic term for which they are seeking accommodations. Each eligible student is responsible for presenting relevant, verifiable, professional documentation and/or assessment reports to the Coordinator. Guidelines for documentation may be found at http://www.acs.tcu.edu/disability_documentation.asp.

Students with emergency medical information or needing special arrangements in case a building must be evacuated should discuss this information with their instructor/professor as soon as possible.

B) Academic Conduct Policy:

Refer to the TCU Undergraduate Studies Catalog (quoted below) <http://www.catalog.tcu.edu/undergraduate/>
An academic community requires the highest standards of honor and integrity in all of its participants if it is to fulfill its missions. In such a community faculty, students, and staff are expected to maintain high standards of academic conduct. The purpose of this policy is to make all aware of these expectations. Additionally, the policy outlines some, but not all, of the situations which can arise that violate these standards. Further, the policy sets forth a set of procedures, characterized by a "sense of fair play," which will be used when these standards are violated. In this spirit, definitions of academic misconduct are listed below. These are not meant to be exhaustive.

Academic misconduct.

Any act that violates the spirit of the academic conduct policy is considered academic misconduct. Specific examples include, but are not limited to:

A. Cheating. Includes, but is not limited to:

1. Copying from another student's test paper, laboratory report, other report, or computer files and listings.
2. Using in any academic exercise or academic setting, material and/or devices not authorized by the person in charge of the test.
3. Collaborating with or seeking aid from another student during an academic exercise without the permission of the person in charge of the exercise.
4. Knowingly using, buying, selling, stealing, transporting, or soliciting in its entirety or in part, the contents of a test or other assignment unauthorized for release.
5. Substituting for another student, or permitting another student to substitute for oneself, in a manner that leads to misrepresentation of either or both students work.

B. Plagiarism. The appropriation, theft, purchase, or obtaining by any means another's work, and the unacknowledged submission or incorporation of that work as one's own offered for credit. Appropriation includes the quoting or paraphrasing of another's work without giving credit therefore.

C. Collusion. The unauthorized collaboration with another in preparing work offered for credit.

D. Abuse of resource materials. Mutilating, destroying, concealing, or stealing such materials.

E. Computer misuse. Unauthorized or illegal use of computer software or hardware through the TCU Computer Center or through any programs, terminals, or freestanding computers owned, leased, or operated by TCU or any of its academic units for the purpose of affecting the academic standing of a student.

F. Fabrication and falsification. Unauthorized alteration or invention of any information or citation in an academic exercise. Falsification involves altering information for use in any academic exercise. Fabrication involves inventing or counterfeiting information for use in any academic exercise.

G. Multiple submission. The submission by the same individual of substantial portions of the same academic work (including oral reports) for credit more than once in the same or another class without authorization.

H. Complicity in academic misconduct. Helping another to commit an act of academic misconduct.

I. Bearing false witness. Knowingly and falsely accusing another student of academic misconduct.

Sanctions. Sanctions will be imposed for acts of academic misconduct. Students may obtain a complete copy of the Academic Conduct Policy in the offices of all the academic deans, the Dean of Campus Life, the Vice Chancellor of Academic Affairs, and the Vice Chancellor of Student Affairs.

II. Additional policies for this class

A) Attendance:

As a significant element in your participation grade, attendance is central to effective performance in the course. More generally, attending regularly supports your learning in a class where much of the work is collaborative and interactive. These are two major incentives supporting regular attendance.

Only official university absences and documented illness are excused absences. Students representing TCU in a university-mandated activity that requires missing class should provide official documentation of schedules and turn in work in advance. Absences due to undocumented illness (i.e., no health center or doctor's record/note), attending optional university events, or traveling out of town are unexcused and, in any case, lead to loss of attendance points for days missed.

Students whose absences are due to circumstances beyond their control may appeal on a case by case basis by bringing pertinent documentation to an individually scheduled appointment outside of class time. Please do not discuss any individual attendance issues during class time.

Tardies--Please be on time for class. Students who are tardy are a distraction to the whole class. On days you are tardy or leave early, one point will be deducted from your 3 potential points earned for attendance. (Should you arrive late AND leave early for a class session, two points would be deducted.) Keep in mind that in-class work cannot be made up. For instance, if we do a short writing exercise or have a quiz before you arrive (late) for class, you cannot complete the exercise or quiz for credit later.

B) Connecting to the course website

We have a website we'll use for various activities throughout the course, including sharing resources; accessing handouts for the course; and sending announcements. However, some writing projects should be turned in via paper copy during class time, unless special arrangements are made ahead of time (e.g., you are going to be out of town for a TCU-sponsored athletic competition). Securing handouts and other materials on the website is a basic requirement for the course.

You are responsible for checking the website regularly for updates to the syllabus and adjustments in the assignments for class. In particular, if you are absent, be sure to go to the website for any updates that were announced during a class period you missed.

C) Late Work

Assignments will be due at the beginning of class and will be considered late thereafter. If you know you will be missing a class, you need to submit the assignment ahead of time.

Late papers will be penalized five points for each class period beyond the due date unless a) the student has an official university absence and b) the instructor has agreed to late submission in advance of the due date. In other words, if you know you will be missing a class, you need to submit the assignment ahead of time or secure special approval ahead of time for a different submission date.

Note that the exam/final project will not be accepted after Wednesday, May 8, at noon, due to the deadline your instructor must meet for turning in final grades to the registrar.

D) Technology Access and Late Work

This course relies heavily on technology, so you will need to have reliable access to the internet, which is always available in several places (including the library) on campus. Problems with technology (e.g., computer crash, printer malfunction, internet connectivity issues) are not acceptable excuses for submitting late work.

Plan ahead to avoid last-minute crises related to due dates.

III. Resources to Support Your Work

The Writing Center: The William L. Adams Center for Writing is an academic service available to all TCU students. Writing specialists and peer tutors are available for one-on-one tutorials from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday in Reed Hall, Suite 419. Students can also visit the Center for Writing annex in the Information Commons area of the library Sunday through Thursday from 6:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. Online tutorials are also available. To make an appointment for either location or to use the online tutorial service, please visit the Center for Writing web site at <http://www.wrt.tcu.edu/>.

New Media Writing Studio

The New Media Writing Studio (NMWS) is available to assist students with audio, video, multimedia, and webdesign projects. The Studio, located in SCHAR 2003, serves as an open lab for use by students during posted hours. The Studio has both pc and Mac computers outfitted with Adobe CS3, which includes Adobe Acrobat, Dreamweaver, Photoshop, Flash, and InDesign. A variety of equipment is available for checkout to students whose teachers have contacted the Studio in advance. For more information and a schedule of open hours, see <http://www.newmedia.tcu.edu/>.
